

GOT BACK HIS BEARD.
His Many Appearances at the Theatre Costs Young Schuhhafer Only $5.

A mud-bespattered black-and-tan cab deposited at the door of Jefferson Market yesterday a policeman and Emanuel Schuhhafer. Schuhhafer is the young man who wore a false beard to the Madison Square Theatre on Wednesday evening. A Newmarket coat covered his full dress suit and swept the tops of his patent leathers. His light-brown hair was parted in the middle and fell in ringlets over his narrow forehead. Gold-rimmed spectacles shaded his eyes, and his thin face was pale. Schuhhafer made no comments as he leaned against the desk and listened to this charge: "The said defendant did disguise his face by wearing a false beard and moustaches and moved said beard and moustaches to and fro, annoying the patrons of said theatre."

Policeman Triggs untied a bundle, and laid a large brown beard and moustaches on the Judge's desk. Everybody understood why and how moved to and fro, when put over Schuhhafer's narrow face. It was six or seven sizes too big.

"These are the things this fellow wore in the theatre," said the policeman, "and he made a awful pretty girl with them, too."

"Young man, why did you wear this disguise?" Justice Daly asked sternly. " Didn't you know it was wrong?" Schuhhafer cast down his eyes and answered: "No, sir, I didn't know I was doing any harm. I didn't want to be recognized that was all."

"What do you mean? I had you with you?"

"On my honor, Judge, I assure you it was nothing of the kind. A young man always wants to have a good time, and a respectable girl to the theatre. My folks object to her because she is poor, and that's why I had her with me."

"I fine you $5," interrupted the little Judge, "and don't do it again."

Schuhhafer took $5 from a dusty pocketbook and handed it over. Then he recited the words of the nicely-handled kufe, which had been taken from him, got his beard and moustache and tripped out of court. He came down to the office an hour afterward, and said he did not wear the beard so that he would not be recognized, but wore it for a joke.

WIVES IN TWO COUNTIES.

Mr. Greene's First Spouse Intercepts His Latest Promiscuity.

LIVONIA, N.Y., Jan. 8.—Late yesterday afternoon William E. Greene of Alton, in the town of Sodus in this county, was arrested on a charge of bigamy. Greene has been a social favorite in the village. He is possessed of some means, is about 30 years of age, and is very good looking. He has been about town, and is known to have the right of several of young ladies in Sodus. After a skirmish of two months he married Miss Emily of Utica Hoxie of Utica Hoxie of Utica last July. Since then he and his wife, who is only 19 years old, have lived with her father's family.

Several weeks ago it was rumored that Greene had another wife, and a young little woman was seen to the rumor. A few days ago this same woman arrived in Alton and went to the church. She was not seen again in public, but was seen to have been arrested for bigamy, asserting that she was his lawful wife and that her home was in Fulton.

The examination of Greene occurred this morning, and he denied the charge. His wife testified that her name was Jennie Hoxie, that she married him in Oswego on Jan. 18, 1883, and they have lived together ever since, when he suddenly deserted her. She should not see him again until a few days ago in Alton.

Mrs. Olive Greene also testified that she was the mother of the child. She was not present at the trial, but was present at the wedding last July. Several witnesses testified to having been present at Greene's wedding in January, 1883. The justices decided to hold Greene in custody until he could be tried.

These ten companies, owning copper mines in the Lake Superior region, entered into an agreement, which was to take effect March 1, 1885, giving the Calumet & Hecla Company sole power to make contracts for the sale of copper, and each of the other companies agreed to sell its copper to the Calumet & Hecla.

Heckendorff, president of the Copper Company, said that the first mortgage had been foreclosed and sold for $300,000 on the dollar. Bill was fixed at $3,000.

IN IT THE SAME WITH COAL?

A Pool to Limit the Sale of Copper Against Public Policy and Void.

Judge Lawrence has dissolved the temporary injunction in the suit brought by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and nine other copper mining companies against the Quincy Mining Company.

The conservation of Bishop Pace.

In the Lake Superior region, entered into an agreement, which was to take effect March 1, 1885, giving the Calumet & Hecla Company sole power to make contracts for the sale of copper, and each of the other companies agreed to sell its copper to the Calumet & Hecla.

Heckendorff, president of the Copper Company, said that the first mortgage had been foreclosed and sold for $300,000 on the dollar. Bill was fixed at $3,000.

IN IT THE SAME WITH COAL?

A Pool to Limit the Sale of Copper Against Public Policy and Void.

Judge Lawrence has dissolved the temporary injunction in the suit brought by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and nine other copper mining companies against the Quincy Mining Company.

The examination of Greene occurred this morning, and he denied the charge. His wife testified that her name was Jennie Hoxie, that she married him in Oswego on Jan. 18, 1883, and they have lived together ever since, when he suddenly deserted her. She should not see him again until a few days ago in Alton.

Mrs. Olive Greene also testified that she was the mother of the child. She was not present at the trial, but was present at the wedding last July. Several witnesses testified to having been present at Greene's wedding in January, 1883. The justices decided to hold Greene in custody until he could be tried.

These ten companies, owning copper mines in the Lake Superior region, entered into an agreement, which was to take effect March 1, 1885, giving the Calumet & Hecla Company sole power to make contracts for the sale of copper, and each of the other companies agreed to sell its copper to the Calumet & Hecla.

Heckendorff, president of the Copper Company, said that the first mortgage had been foreclosed and sold for $300,000 on the dollar. Bill was fixed at $3,000.

IN IT THE SAME WITH COAL?

A Pool to Limit the Sale of Copper Against Public Policy and Void.

Judge Lawrence has dissolved the temporary injunction in the suit brought by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and nine other copper mining companies against the Quincy Mining Company.

The examination of Greene occurred this morning, and he denied the charge. His wife testified that her name was Jennie Hoxie, that she married him in Oswego on Jan. 18, 1883, and they have lived together ever since, when he suddenly deserted her. She should not see him again until a few days ago in Alton.

Mrs. Olive Greene also testified that she was the mother of the child. She was not present at the trial, but was present at the wedding last July. Several witnesses testified to having been present at Greene's wedding in January, 1883. The justices decided to hold Greene in custody until he could be tried.

These ten companies, owning copper mines in the Lake Superior region, entered into an agreement, which was to take effect March 1, 1885, giving the Calumet & Hecla Company sole power to make contracts for the sale of copper, and each of the other companies agreed to sell its copper to the Calumet & Hecla.

Heckendorff, president of the Copper Company, said that the first mortgage had been foreclosed and sold for $300,000 on the dollar. Bill was fixed at $3,000.

IN IT THE SAME WITH COAL?

A Pool to Limit the Sale of Copper Against Public Policy and Void.

Judge Lawrence has dissolved the temporary injunction in the suit brought by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and nine other copper mining companies against the Quincy Mining Company.

The examination of Greene occurred this morning, and he denied the charge. His wife testified that her name was Jennie Hoxie, that she married him in Oswego on Jan. 18, 1883, and they have lived together ever since, when he suddenly deserted her. She should not see him again until a few days ago in Alton.

Mrs. Olive Greene also testified that she was the mother of the child. She was not present at the trial, but was present at the wedding last July. Several witnesses testified to having been present at Greene's wedding in January, 1883. The justices decided to hold Greene in custody until he could be tried.

These ten companies, owning copper mines in the Lake Superior region, entered into an agreement, which was to take effect March 1, 1885, giving the Calumet & Hecla Company sole power to make contracts for the sale of copper, and each of the other companies agreed to sell its copper to the Calumet & Hecla.

Heckendorff, president of the Copper Company, said that the first mortgage had been foreclosed and sold for $300,000 on the dollar. Bill was fixed at $3,000.

IN IT THE SAME WITH COAL?

A Pool to Limit the Sale of Copper Against Public Policy and Void.

Judge Lawrence has dissolved the temporary injunction in the suit brought by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and nine other copper mining companies against the Quincy Mining Company.

The examination of Greene occurred this morning, and he denied the charge. His wife testified that her name was Jennie Hoxie, that she married him in Oswego on Jan. 18, 1883, and they have lived together ever since, when he suddenly deserted her. She should not see him again until a few days ago in Alton.

Mrs. Olive Greene also testified that she was the mother of the child. She was not present at the trial, but was present at the wedding last July. Several witnesses testified to having been present at Greene's wedding in January, 1883. The justices decided to hold Greene in custody until he could be tried.

These ten companies, owning copper mines in the Lake Superior region, entered into an agreement, which was to take effect March 1, 1885, giving the Calumet & Hecla Company sole power to make contracts for the sale of copper, and each of the other companies agreed to sell its copper to the Calumet & Hecla.

Heckendorff, president of the Copper Company, said that the first mortgage had been foreclosed and sold for $300,000 on the dollar. Bill was fixed at $3,000.

IN IT THE SAME WITH COAL?

A Pool to Limit the Sale of Copper Against Public Policy and Void.

Judge Lawrence has dissolved the temporary injunction in the suit brought by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and nine other copper mining companies against the Quincy Mining Company.

The examination of Greene occurred this morning, and he denied the charge. His wife testified that her name was Jennie Hoxie, that she married him in Oswego on Jan. 18, 1883, and they have lived together ever since, when he suddenly deserted her. She should not see him again until a few days ago in Alton.

Mrs. Olive Greene also testified that she was the mother of the child. She was not present at the trial, but was present at the wedding last July. Several witnesses testified to having been present at Greene's wedding in January, 1883. The justices decided to hold Greene in custody until he could be tried.

These ten companies, owning copper mines in the Lake Superior region, entered into an agreement, which was to take effect March 1, 1885, giving the Calumet & Hecla Company sole power to make contracts for the sale of copper, and each of the other companies agreed to sell its copper to the Calumet & Hecla.

Heckendorff, president of the Copper Company, said that the first mortgage had been foreclosed and sold for $300,000 on the dollar. Bill was fixed at $3,000.

IN IT THE SAME WITH COAL?

A Pool to Limit the Sale of Copper Against Public Policy and Void.

Judge Lawrence has dissolved the temporary injunction in the suit brought by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and nine other copper mining companies against the Quincy Mining Company.

The examination of Greene occurred this morning, and he denied the charge. His wife testified that her name was Jennie Hoxie, that she married him in Oswego on Jan. 18, 1883, and they have lived together ever since, when he suddenly deserted her. She should not see him again until a few days ago in Alton.

Mrs. Olive Greene also testified that she was the mother of the child. She was not present at the trial, but was present at the wedding last July. Several witnesses testified to having been present at Greene's wedding in January, 1883. The justices decided to hold Greene in custody until he could be tried.

These ten companies, owning copper mines in the Lake Superior region, entered into an agreement, which was to take effect March 1, 1885, giving the Calumet & Hecla Company sole power to make contracts for the sale of copper, and each of the other companies agreed to sell its copper to the Calumet & Hecla.

Heckendorff, president of the Copper Company, said that the first mortgage had been foreclosed and sold for $300,000 on the dollar. Bill was fixed at $3,000.

IN IT THE SAME WITH COAL?

A Pool to Limit the Sale of Copper Against Public Policy and Void.

Judge Lawrence has dissolved the temporary injunction in the suit brought by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and nine other copper mining companies against the Quincy Mining Company.

The examination of Greene occurred this morning, and he denied the charge. His wife testified that her name was Jennie Hoxie, that she married him in Oswego on Jan. 18, 1883, and they have lived together ever since, when he suddenly deserted her. She should not see him again until a few days ago in Alton.

Mrs. Olive Greene also testified that she was the mother of the child. She was not present at the trial, but was present at the wedding last July. Several witnesses testified to having been present at Greene's wedding in January, 1883. The justices decided to hold Greene in custody until he could be tried.

These ten companies, owning copper mines in the Lake Superior region, entered into an agreement, which was to take effect March 1, 1885, giving the Calumet & Hecla Company sole power to make contracts for the sale of copper, and each of the other companies agreed to sell its copper to the Calumet & Hecla.

Heckendorff, president of the Copper Company, said that the first mortgage had been foreclosed and sold for $300,000 on the dollar. Bill was fixed at $3,000.

IN IT THE SAME WITH COAL?

A Pool to Limit the Sale of Copper Against Public Policy and Void.

Judge Lawrence has dissolved the temporary injunction in the suit brought by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and nine other copper mining companies against the Quincy Mining Company.

The examination of Greene occurred this morning, and he denied the charge. His wife testified that her name was Jennie Hoxie, that she married him in Oswego on Jan. 18, 1883, and they have lived together ever since, when he suddenly deserted her. She should not see him again until a few days ago in Alton.

Mrs. Olive Greene also testified that she was the mother of the child. She was not present at the trial, but was present at the wedding last July. Several witnesses testified to having been present at Greene's wedding in January, 1883. The justices decided to hold Greene in custody until he could be tried.

These ten companies, owning copper mines in the Lake Superior region, entered into an agreement, which was to take effect March 1, 1885, giving the Calumet & Hecla Company sole power to make contracts for the sale of copper, and each of the other companies agreed to sell its copper to the Calumet & Hecla.

Heckendorff, president of the Copper Company, said that the first mortgage had been foreclosed and sold for $300,000 on the dollar. Bill was fixed at $3,000.

IN IT THE SAME WITH COAL?

A Pool to Limit the Sale of Copper Against Public Policy and Void.

Judge Lawrence has dissolved the temporary injunction in the suit brought by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and nine other copper mining companies against the Quincy Mining Company.

The examination of Greene occurred this morning, and he denied the charge. His wife testified that her name was Jennie Hoxie, that she married him in Oswego on Jan. 18, 1883, and they have lived together ever since, when he suddenly deserted her. She should not see him again until a few days ago in Alton.

Mrs. Olive Greene also testified that she was the mother of the child. She was not present at the trial, but was present at the wedding last July. Several witnesses testified to having been present at Greene's wedding in January, 1883. The justices decided to hold Greene in custody until he could be tried.

These ten companies, owning copper mines in the Lake Superior region, entered into an agreement, which was to take effect March 1, 1885, giving the Calumet & Hecla Company sole power to make contracts for the sale of copper, and each of the other companies agreed to sell its copper to the Calumet & Hecla.

Heckendorff, president of the Copper Company, said that the first mortgage had been foreclosed and sold for $300,000 on the dollar. Bill was fixed at $3,000.

IN IT THE SAME WITH COAL?

A Pool to Limit the Sale of Copper Against Public Policy and Void.

Judge Lawrence has dissolved the temporary injunction in the suit brought by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and nine other copper mining companies against the Quincy Mining Company.

The examination of Greene occurred this morning, and he denied the charge. His wife testified that her name was Jennie Hoxie, that she married him in Oswego on Jan. 18, 1883, and they have lived together ever since, when he suddenly deserted her. She should not see him again until a few days ago in Alton.

Mrs. Olive Greene also testified that she was the mother of the child. She was not present at the trial, but was present at the wedding last July. Several witnesses testified to having been present at Greene's wedding in January, 1883. The justices decided to hold Greene in custody until he could be tried.

These ten companies, owning copper mines in the Lake Superior region, entered into an agreement, which was to take effect March 1, 1885, giving the Calumet & Hecla Company sole power to make contracts for the sale of copper, and each of the other companies agreed to sell its copper to the Calumet & Hecla.

Heckendorff, president of the Copper Company, said that the first mortgage had been foreclosed and sold for $300,000 on the dollar. Bill was fixed at $3,000.

IN IT THE SAME WITH COAL?

A Pool to Limit the Sale of Copper Against Public Policy and Void.

Judge Lawrence has dissolved the temporary injunction in the suit brought by the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company and nine other copper mining companies against the Quincy Mining Company.

The examination of Greene occurred this morning, and he denied the charge. His wife testified that her name was Jennie Hoxie, that she married him in Oswego on Jan. 18, 1883, and they have lived together ever since, when he suddenly deserted her. She should not see him